...the intention of the requirement is "to ensure parents have control over information collected from children ." Under consideration were a print-and-send form signed by the parent and mailed or faxed to the site; a credit card transaction initiated by the parent ; a call made by the parent to a toll-free number; or an e-mail accompanied by the ...TEXT: marketers is requiring a password for children to gain access to the Web site.. Parents contact the web site and submit any required information so their children can get a password. Because the information comes directly from a parent , the Children 's Online Privacy Protection Rules would not apply.

One such site is icanbuy.com, where parents use a credit card to set up a savings account at an online bank for their children . Children access the web site with a password to monitor their account, purchase products (assuming the parents authorized shopping when they set up the account) or make charitable...
